C
When the morning came
G We were cleaning incense off your vinyl shelf Em
D
'Cause we lost track of time again
C Laughing with my feet in your lap G
Em Like you were my closest friend D
C "How'd we end up on the floor, anyway?" D
Em You say, "Your roommate's cheap-ass screw top Rosé, that's how" D
C I see you every day now G D (2)

| Chorus                              |           |
|-------------------------------------|-----------|
| C                            | G  |
| And I                               | chose you |
| Em                           | D  |
| The one I was dancing with          |           |
| C                            | G  |
| In New York, no shoes               |           |
| Em                           | D  |
| Looked up at the sky, and it was    |           |
| C                            |           |
| The burgundy on my T-shirt          |           |
| G                            |           |
| When you splashed your wine into me |           |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Em And how the blood rushed into my cheeks D So scarlet, it was C The mark they saw on my collar bone G The rust that grew between telephones Em The lips I used to call "home" D                      C   G   Em   D So scarlet, it was maroon |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|

C
When the silence came

G
We were shaking, blind, and hazy

Em                      D
How the hell did we lose sight of us again?

C                      G
Sobbing with your head in your hands

Em                      D
Ain't that the way shit always ends?

C                      G
You were standing hollow-eyed in the hallway

Em                      D
Carnations you had thought were roses, that's us

C                      G
I feel you, no matter what

D (2)
The rubies that I gave up

Chorus

C                      G
And I wake with your memory over me

Em                      D
That's a real fucking legacy, legacy

C                      G
And I wake with your memory over me

Em                      D
That's a real fucking legacy to leave

C
The burgundy on my T-shirt

G

When you splashed your wine into me

Em

And how the blood rushed into my cheeks

D

So scarlet, it was

C

The mark they saw on my collar bone

G

The rust that grew between telephones

Em

The lips I used to call "home"

D

C

G

Em

D

So scarlet, it was maroon

C

G

Em

It was maroon

D

It was maroon
